What Steps Can I Take to Explore Potential Career Interests or College Majors?

Exploring potential career interests or college majors as a high school student can be streamlined using resources like Upptik, alongside other practical activities:

Utilize Upptik

Upptik is a platform designed to help students explore careers and education paths. Here's how it can aid your exploration:

- Read About Careers: Access details on various professions, understanding roles and requirements.
- Community Interaction: Engage in discussions with peers and near-peers to gain insights into different fields.
- Watch Day in the Life Videos: Get a realistic view of daily job activities to see if they align with your interests.
- Talk to Mentors: Connect with near-peers who can relate for guidance and personalized advice.
- Take Skills Courses: Enjoy over 200 simple courses to strengthen your skills and see what speaks to you.

Other Exploration Steps

- Internships and Jobs: Gain hands-on experience through internships or part-time jobs in areas of interest.
- Volunteering: Develop skills and understand different sectors by volunteering.
- Academic Courses: Enroll in diverse subjects to identify potential majors or career interests.
- Informational Interviews: Speak with professionals to learn about their career paths and day-to-day tasks.

These steps provide a structured approach to discovering what career or major might be the right fit for you, leveraging both digital platforms and direct experiences.